Description

The drawing on the left depicts a fish like figure riding a sow, behind, which are a cluster of heads, and erotic figures in the manner of Bosch. The drawing on the right shows a continuation of the erotic figures growing smaller in size until they tail off into a fine line. In the foreground a pair of lovers and a head encircled by a flourish of leaves, behind which a devil-like face peers out with long pointed fingers around his mouth. The preparatory drawing for this is HCLA16.
