Description

This is a six colour planographic print (lithograph) on paper. The edges of this lithographic print are purposely torn into an irregularly shaped square. The top left and lower right corners are coloured golden yellow and the opposing corners are a whitish yellow. In the centre is a spiral that starts with a red tip and moves outwards as a thick brown line. The line disappears when it reaches an area of whitish yellow and reappears on the golden yellow sections. There is a light brown colouring in the centre between the brown lines. The combination of the light brown and the brown spiral gives the impression of a chipped seashell.
